

Preface

The thirty-sixth annual meeting of the Linguistic Society of the Netherlands was held in Utrecht on January 29th, 2005. The aim of the annual meetings is to provide members with the opportunity to report on their ongoing research. At this year's meeting, 78 papers were presented, of which 27 were submitted to the present volume.

This volume contains a selection of these papers, and presents an overview of current research in a variety of fields in linguistics. We wish to thank a large number of colleagues for their help in refereeing the papers submitted to this volume.
